Practice Description

Lynne Page Clarke is a shareholder in the Family Law Section at QSLWM, handling all matters impacting children and families, including divorce, annulment, property division, pre- and post-marital agreements, child custody, paternity, adoption, termination of parental rights, visitation, child support, enforcement and modification issues.

A native Dallasite, Lynne began her career in 1991 as a commercial litigation attorney with the Dallas-based firm of Winstead, Sechrest & Minick, P.C. where she handled a wide variety of complex litigation matters, including business, banking, probate, employment, patent, environmental and real estate. In 1992, Lynne became one of the inaugural members of the Pro Bono College of the State Bar of Texas, practicing Family Law, and was Chair of the Dallas Bar Association's Non-Profit group, Lawyers Against Domestic Violence. When Jackson, Lewis, Schnitzler & Krupman first opened their Dallas office, Lynne took a position in the firm's employment litigation section until she moved overseas where she lived with her husband and three sons for twelve years. After repatriating to the United States, Lynne practiced various types of law on a contract basis, including business litigation, oil and gas and family law, until she joined QSLWM as a family attorney in their Dallas office.

Lynne practices primarily in the DFW area, including Dallas, Collin, Denton, and Tarrant Counties.
