Practice Description

Michael is a litigation attorney who represents financial institutions, including claims arising under the Fair Credit Reporting Act, Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, and Deceptive Trade Practices Act. He handles cases across the country and advises clients on litigation strategy and risk management.

Michael brings significant in-house perspective to his practice, having served in claims and litigation roles managing real estate and title-related litigation for a national financial institution.

He has extensive experience overseeing all phases of litigation, drafting, and arguing motions, managing discovery, and representing clients in mediations and settlement negotiations.
