Practice Description

Mr. Sheldon is an experienced trial attorney with a concentration in litigating financial services and business disputes, including Fair Credit Reporting Act and Fair Debt Collection Practices Act matters across the country. In addition to his FCRA and FDCPA background, Mr. Sheldon has provided consultation and representation in numerous areas of construction related litigation, personal injury defense, and medical liability exposure. Prior to joining QSLWM, Mr. Sheldon was an equity partner at Strasburger & Price LLP handling a large federal court docket on behalf of a national credit reporting agency. He continues to advise clients as to appropriate methods of limiting liability exposure, including strategies for protecting corporate, business, and financial services entities.

Representative Experience

- Represents a national credit reporting agency in numerous FCRA litigation cases across the country.
- Achieved favorable results including multiple dismissals and settlements for national credit reporting agencies and debt collection companies in multiple jurisdictions.
- Called upon frequently to advise construction related clients on litigation and surety-related issues.
- Handled shareholder business litigation matters against and on behalf of minority shareholders.
- Achieved favorable results both pre-trial and through jury verdict for physician, hospital, and nursing home clients in medical liability claims.
- 23-year career U.S. Army JAG Corps federal prosecutor, criminal defense attorney, and unit leader.
